

Bail bondsman proposal at odds with pretrial screening

A pending legislative proposal to revive a state-run bail bonds system could impede the progress of two counties' new pretrial screening programs based on risk evaluation. The bill, yet to be introduced, is a modified reboot of a budgetary provision vetoed by Gov. Scott Walker last year. Both were designed to jumpstart local economies. "This is a ...