Tahlequah — Cherokee County sheriff's deputies filed a report Wednesday from an Aug. 8 incident where a Tulsa man alleges he paid money to a man representing himself as a bounty hunter and bail bondsman.

Robert Arnold said he gave the suspect money to help get someone out of jail. The suspect later offered to return the money, but never would meet Arnold, who later learned the man was not a bounty hunter or bail bondsman.

Susan Vance told deputies Monday about a domestic dispute. Vance said she was physically assaulted at her home in front of her 6-year-old son.
